

The Tale of Snow White

Please memorize one of the monologues listed below from
Barbara Lennon's, A Tale of Snow White,
OR choose and memorize your own monologue/poem.

Snow White:

Oh, my goodness! Look at this cute little house! Everything is so little...really, really little. And look at this table! Seven little chairs, seven little plates and spoons. Whoever lives here must be very small! Perhaps it's children! This food looks awfully good. I am so very hungry. Perhaps they wouldn't mind if I had a little nibble. And a bed with seven little pillows, oh how cute!

Evil Queen:

I must think of a way to get rid of Snow White. I simply must be the most beautiful woman in the entire land, but how? Ah-hah! I have it! No girl can resist beautiful clothes. Well, I shall present her with such she cannot resist. But first, to disguise myself. Hmmm, the right spell is needed. Let's see...

Mirror: (rapping)

*Hey look! I'm a mirror and I can really see ya.
But, wow, I guess I wouldn't want to be ya.
She thinks she's very pretty,
The best in the city,
But when it comes to others,
Well, she got no pity.
She's the queen.
The queen of the mean.*

Prince Charming:

I am the handsome Prince Charming! I have climbed the highest peaks and fought the fiercest dragons to be here. Oh, behold the fair Snow White! I love you more than anything in the whole world. Please do me the honor of coming with me to my father's castle. You shall become my wife.

AUDITIONS: Tuesday, December 18 from 5:00-7:00
Wednesday, December 19 from 5:00-7:00